Robert St. George Dyrenforth Tries to Explain.

Why He Expelled a Command That Endorsed Mr. McKinley.

His Prediction of Dire Disaster From Fellowship of Union and Confederate Veteraus.

The action of Commander-in-Chief Robert St. George Dyrenforth, of the Union Veteran's Union, in expelling the D. D. Forter Command, No. 16, for adopting a President McKinley with reference to caring for the graves of the Confederate dead, has furnished a topic for widespread dis cussion, mostly condemnatory, of Mr. Dyrenforth. The first intimation of the sentiments of the old soldiers relative to the speech of the President made while at the speech of the President made while at Atlanta last December, was the resolution of the D. D. Porter Command, which appeared in The Times of March 10. The resolution was given out for publication by the members of the organization, accompanied with the information that Commander-in-Chief Dyrenforth had not only denounced it but had threatened to expel the command if the resolution should reach publicity. General Dyrenforth later denied having made such a threat and stated that he had no knowledge of the resolution until it was seen by him in The Times. Prior to this date, however, a staff officer of the Commander-in-Chief visited the of the Commander-in-Chief visited the command with a request from General Dyrenforth that the resolution be rescindoummand with a request from General Dyrenforth that the resolution be rescinded. This the command refused to do. On March 18 a general order was drawn upon and promulgated by the Commander-in-Chief expelling the command from the Union Veterans Union.

The order was read at a meeting of the Porter Post Monday night. It resulted in the adoption of another resolution demouncing the action of the Commander-in-Chief as "unjust, illegal, and subversive to the spirit of true comradeship." The paraphernalia of the order was then turned over to headquarters, and the command was dissolved. Later it will appeal for vindication of its action to the next general cheampment of the Union Veterans Union. It is claimed by the members of the Porter command that the general sentiment of the union is in sympathy with their resolution. They also state that there are a number of officials in the organization who were seen yesterday seems to verify the assertion of the Porter Command. It was found that the privates in the organization were in perfect sympathy with the sentiment of the President.

believed at the time to be right. Their valor was shown on many a hard-contested field. Their aincertity was evidenced by the sacrifices they made. Their bravery and endurance were never excelled either in ancient or modern warfare.

"I naturally enquired if the resolution had been adopted. I consider that any such interpretation of the sentiments of the President is an insult to him, and I sent one of my staff to Porter Command asking it to rescind the resolution. This it refused to do. It is true that there were not many present when the rerolution was adopted or when they refused to comply with my request, but it appears, of course, as the resolution of a body. There was but one course left for me to pursue, and that to revoke the charter. I began an order to this effect, but upon treatment of the series of the series. parsue, and that to revoke the charter, is began an order to this effect, but upon investigation found that it had no charter, so I was only compelled to refuse to recognize the command. There is no quibble as to whether it had a charter or not; if it had had one I should have revoked it. I only defendant in the case and is sued as only defendant in the case and is sued as the charter of the steamable. This com-out foundation.

"When the Porter Command was incorporated it was known as the Joe Hooker Command, but most of the members being from the navy the name was changed to its present one. I have never had the charter of the Joe Hooker Command in my hands for an instant. I do not believe that I ever saw it, and I am sure that it has never been at headquarters. It is somewhat amusing to read the unantimous its old the when it appears that the commands a very small. Besides many of the former Porter petiple have been to see me today in regard to enlisting in other commands of the department. The union has been for some time and will be more so in the future, careful to keep out of the union any man who has been licked out of another organization.

"I understand that a person who is making himself quite prominent in this little."

"I understand that a person who is making himself quite prominent in this little. Porter Command matter was turned out of the Union Veterans' Legion or courtmartialed or something of the sort. I have been told that it was on the ground, among other things, that he enlisted in the Constant of the sort of t been told that it was on the ground, among other things, that he enlisted in the Con-federate army. If such be the case I can easily account for the obnoxious sentiment quoted in the resolution Rebels Once and Always.

"The position I take as Commander-in Chief of the Union Veterans' Union, and I voice the sentiments of the whole organization, is that while we hold no animosity against the rebels, we intend to fight everything which will lessen the prestige of the Union soldier. We are against any sentiment which will make the people of the United States forget that the rebels fought against the country and are still enemies to it. We do not want to obliter-ate the distinction between the Union soldiers and the men who endeavored to lestroy this nation and thus break down the preference which is to be given to the Federal soldier. We are not fambs to be led to the slaughter, and contribute to the other fellow's feast. We are not ready to say that if he will call it square we will try to be good in the future, and be can Dyrenforth's Statement.

General Dyrenforth was seen last night by a Times reporter, to whom he dictated the following statement:

"The first time I saw the resolution of the Porter Command was in The Times, and I was surprised to find that it contained such language as this:

"It is conceded by all, that the soldiers of the Confederacy, though misguided as they were in upholding the cause of secession, nevertheless fought for what they believed at the time to be right. Their valor was shown on many a hard-contested field. Their sincertity was evidenced by paratus, but upon the whole it was rethe country as the inventor of a machine that would produce rain. The Government made several experiments with his apparatus, but upon the whole it was regarded by scientific men as very much of a failure. From that incident Mr. Dyrenforth gained the soubriquet of "the rain-maker."

The $3,000,000 Insufficient to Appease the Army's Greed.

Quesada's Flight to New York to Escape His Enemics-Their Mission Sunvely Told.

> Senor Jose R. Villalon and Senor Hevia, the representatives of the much-discussed Assembly of the Army of Cuba, arrived in Washington yesterday morning, and Senor Genzala de Quesada, the resident Cuban representative, disappeared from the city at the same time. The newly arrived Cubans were members of the body which leposed General Comez and Senor Quesada, and were elected as a committee representative of the so-called Cu-ban Assembly to come to Wash-ington and confer with the President and his Cabinet and see if the little offer of $3,900,000 from this Government might not be raised to $5,000,000, or even $10,-000,000, so that the Army of Cuba might be remunerated and enabled to start upon

Dr. J. W. Bechtel presented a claim for $65 for at-tending persons affected with smallpox; the matter was referred to the committee cording to those who are acquainted with the volts of the Cuban dynamo. As was stated in The Times several weeks ago, the complications which led up to Quesada's deposition by the "Assembly" included the proceedings of the Cuban Commission, which came to this city in November last, with General Garcia as chairman Senor Villalon was manufact of on claims. Senor Villalon was a member of this Commission, and, according to those who are acquainted with facts in the case, the complications arising out of a disagreement as to whether $3,000,000 on $10,000,000 should be exacted from the United States Government, brought about a split in the Commission. On the Garcia side were Quesada, Lanuza, and Rubens; on the Sangully ($10,000,000) side were Jose Gomez and Villalon.

It is a known fact that hard feeling prevalled for several weeks after the death of General Garcia and until the members of the commission returned to Cuba. It was a freeze-out between the Quesada-Rubens combination and the Sanguily-Villalon-Gomez combination with everything matter was referred to the committee on streets. Isaac Studds presented a claim for nursing or attending Mr. Bowie, who was affected with smallpox, and the bill was affected with smellpox, and the bill was referred to the committee on claims. The committee on claims submitted a favorable report on the bills of the doctors recently employed by the health officer in making a house to house inspection, with vaccination. The report was adopted by the board of aldermen. When the matter was called up in the lower board, Mr. Uhier objected, and urged that the bills were exorbitant and unwarranted. The council, by a vote of 5 to 8, refused to con-

Incensed Anew.

When the commission returned to Cuba, senor Quesada added new coals to the fire by his mission to Gen. Maximo Gomez and his work with Hon. Robert P. Porter in his work with Hon. Robert P. Forter in bringing about an acceptance of the of-fer of $3,000,000 by this Government and the establishment of a good-feeling among the people of Cuba. When the Assembly of the Army of Cuba met, Quesada was branded as a traitor and deposed from his position as the representative of the Cu-bans at Washington.

All this was very bitter and when the "Assembly" decided that a committee be sent to Washington to confer with President McKinley with reference to increasing the num offered the Cuban army. Senor Quesada, it is stated on good authority, decided to wash his hands clean of the disturbers and allow them to come here as individuals, meet with almost certain fallure and depart disconsolate.
